

David Stroberg was born in 1956 in Hutchinson, KS and attended Buhler High School. Following High School, he attended Hutchinson Community College receiving an Associate's degree.

David operates a dryland and irrigated farming operation with a cow/calf herd along the Arkansas River corridor between Hutchinson and Sterling.

After the hot, dry summer of 1980, he became more aware of an interested in water issues and resources in Kansas. He knows how critical water resources are for the economy of Kansas, including anything from the municipal, industrial side to agriculture and recreation.

David has been involved with the Equus Beds Groundwater Management District (GMD 2) since 1998 serving on the board and as President. He takes advantage of any opportunity possible to learn and be actively involved in water issues, not only in southcentral Kansas but across the state to expand his knowledge on water issues.

“We need to practice good stewardship and conservation to work and plan for a long-term water supply for future generations,” said Stroberg. “We need to get involved early to provide a positive effect rather than trying to fix problems after bad decisions are made.”

David and his wife Susan have been married for 40 years, have two daughters, one son and five grandchildren. They enjoy traveling when they can.
